

Andrej M Grijbovski, MD, MPhil, Dr.med

Born in 1975 in Severodvinsk, Northwest Russia.

Senior advisor at the Norwegian Institute of Public Health, Oslo, Norway (2002-present). Director of the International School of Public Health at the Northern State Medical University, Arkhangelsk, Russia (2009-2014). Professor (20% position) at the University of Tromsø, Norway (2009-2013). Professor at the International Kazakh-Turkish University, Turkestan, Kazakhstan (2015-). Professor of Public Health at the North-Eastern Federal University, Yakutsk, Russia (2016-).

Graduated with honors from the Northern State Medical University (Arkhangelsk, Russia) in 1998. Obtained Master of Philosophy degree in International Community Health in Oslo University, Norway, in 2003 and doctoral degree in Medicine (dr.med) from Karolinska Institute, Stockholm, Sweden. WHO consultant for the project on climate and health in the Russian Federation and Kazakhstan (2010-2012). Project leader for many projects in Northwest Russia supported by the Norwegian Ministry of Health and Care Services.

Acting chairman of the Norwegian Epidemiological Society (2012) and member of the Executive Board of the European Epidemiological Federation.

Member of Editorial Board of several international biomedical journals. International Editor of journals “Human Ecology” (Russian Federation) and “Science and Healthcare” (Kazakhstan).

Honorary doctor of the International Kazakh-Turkish University, Turkestan, Kazakhstan.

Honorary professor of the Semey State Medical University, Kazakhstan.